

Chester Plays McGuire's---Virginia Ready for Vanderbilt

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

By Guy Malbert

Vacations serve two purposes, not that vacations are the subject of this particular song; but vacations really do serve two purposes, especially when vacations happen to come after the long and wearying grind of telling daily just how a losing ball club or a losing football team might have been turned into the grabber of a gonfalon. Back to the two purposes, and, gentle reader, bear with us while we narrate these few choice philosophings.

Just by way of being bromidic, the first and most lasting purpose or influence of vacations is that they are something or some things, depending entirely upon which light you view the verb, wherein one gathers mental sores past all healing until the managing editor tears around telling how little we know and how little we have done, and how less than little we have been missed. Jogging briskly back to a desk with fourteen long hours of toil in front and only a retrospect of an idle pursuit after rest in the kit, with a do-or-die expression on our countenances, we are greeted by the office boy with a declaration that we are the fellow who used to work around the shop, while the boss, at that—voices the sentiment that we left no vacancy. This is purpose, or effect, or influence No. 1 carried to the very ultimate of endurance.

Comes now the compensating influence. Vacation time is the harvest period of nibble; it is the occasion during which are gathered all the "ifs," "maybes," "might-as-wells," "if-it-probably-where-with" are built the winter league. So long as there are nuts there will be those of us who will build the winter league; they may toast themselves with the utmost content, therefore, vacationing being over, the bread basket empty, and lean names the order of the day, we shall presently dilate, orate, and by other but equally effective, methods endeavor to entertain you during the span when the alfalfa sprouts not, nor the daisies bloom.

The Virginia League will hold a meeting next month, holding meetings being one of the very best things performed by the Virginia League. Time was when the mere announcement that the magnates of the Virginia League were to foregather would bring jubilation to the heart of your real reporter, but that time has passed—passed until now these foregatherings are chronicled along with other occasions of innocuous portent. There is just one justification for the announcement now and in this column.

This particular meeting of the Virginia League, which is to be held in Newport News during the latter part of November, is sure to stir up something out of the ordinary. In the first place, the probability is that a change in the circuit will be made. Portsmouth is ready, nay, anxious to drop out of the league, but the men holding the Portsmouth franchise are business men, and, as business men, they are anxious to realize on all the stock they have in hand. This stock consists of the franchise rights and numerous ball players, real or alleged. For that reason almost all of the transactions carried on by the gentlemen of Portsmouth have been under cover.

Still, by that subtle grapevine telegraphy about which so little is known, but which is so fruitful, the story is told that Portsmouth is to quit and that Lynchburg is to be substituted. The November meeting will take care of the proposition. At that time Portsmouth will either put up the forfeit money required of each of the clubs or Portsmouth will have had its last experience as a member of the family. Everything points to Truckerville leaving the ranks, just as every other thing points to Lynchburg as the logical successor.

With Roanoke in the circuit, the long jump from Norfolk and Newport News to the Magic City has been a thorn in the sides of the eastern clubs these many days, and a way out has been sought. Eyes at one time were turned towards Suffolk, but the men of that thriving community say that if Suffolk is to come into the organization then Roanoke must drop out. There isn't the ghost of a possibility that Roanoke must quit. They have too much money invested and are willing to lose too much for any such contingency to arise. Therefore Lynchburg is the logical selection.

However, in Lynchburg, though the city is ripe for baseball after a drought of two seasons, there are warring factions. One faction, led by R. B. Wilkerson, who was president of the club when it foundered in 1911, has already applied for the franchise. The other faction, it is stated, is headed by the street railway company. The problem now presents itself, assuming that Portsmouth is to drop out and Lynchburg substituted, of getting these warring factions together in a peaceful pact. Little trouble in doing this is anticipated.

That the money can be raised to properly finance a club in Lynchburg goes without saying. There are any number of wealthy business men in that city who are wide-awake enough to realize what the ball club means money right from the jump. If the ball park can be brought nearer the city, paying crowds should be drawn. The appetites of the fans have been whetted through abstinence, and they will eagerly grasp the opportunity to show their loyalty. Poor Jack Grim made money in Shovelville under less favorable conditions.

From the standpoint of the league, Lynchburg will break a nasty, long jump, and the mileage account, which has been pooled for one season, should be considerably lessened. At any rate, the next meeting of the league will settle the question. Therefore, the next meeting of the league will be more nearly like those with which we were regaled in the dear old days of the long ago. Richmond's 10-cent gate is sure to come in for an awful hammering, although Secretary Bradley is willing to do anything the league wants. "If they can run my ball park and my club better than I can, I am willing to let them do it," he says. "We always give them a good bit of money when they come here, while I know of cities where they play to less than the guarantee. Conditions here make a 10-cent

WINCHESTER BIG GAME CARTRIDGES

The time of all others when reliable cartridges are invaluable is in big-game hunting. A miss-fire, an inaccurate cartridge, or one having poor penetration may mean the loss of a coveted trophy or even injury to the hunter. Winchester—the W brand—of big-game cartridges, either smokeless or black powder, can always be relied on to be sure fire, accurate and to have the proper speed and penetration. You can help MAKE YOUR HUNT A SUCCESS BY USING THEM.

CADETS TO PLAY ACADEMY ELEVEN

Battle for Cellar Position in Prep School League On in Earnest.

A hard-fought game is expected when Benedictine College and Richmond Academy face each other at Broad Street Park to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The game will be a Prep School League championship contest between the two teams. The Benedictine boys have kept up a steady practice for a week, and have shown marked improvement. They are also tied for bottom place in the standing of the league. This will make them fight all the harder.

The two teams are about evenly matched, and both have the fighting spirit and will make it interesting for the winner. While the Benedictine line is somewhat heavier than the Academy line, the Academy back field is faster than the college quartet. No matter which team wins, it is a safe bet that it will not be a runaway score. In the game with John Marshall High School it was seen that the cadets had good material, but that it was green. But since then the Benedictine boys have been taught the value of teamwork by Coach Hart and they have tried hard to overcome that weakness. While, not perfect, they have gained confidence that they will not be defeated through loose playing. The two Parsons and "Plax" Amos are booked to bare the brunt of Academy's offense.

CHESTER SCHOOL MEETS M'GUIRE'S

Two Prep Elevens Mix at Broad Street Park This Afternoon.

Chester High School will face the strong McGuire's eleven at Broad Street Park this afternoon at 2:45 o'clock in what is expected to be a fast and hard-fought game.

The Chester boys are popular with the various teams of the Prep School League. Their first visit was a bright one for them, as by a close score they defeated the John Marshall High School. But the second trip was not so fruitful, as the Richmond Academy eleven chasers took a fall out of them and sent them back to Chester sadder but wiser. Chester will go in the game this afternoon determined to win from McGuire's, but if it does it will have to get down to hard work. For McGuire's has one of the strongest prep teams in the State.

The Chester boys have shown much class in every game they have entered, and it is not probable that they will show up now. Besides having a heavy team, they have speed and teamwork, and their backfield plays with snap and vim. They are anxious to make the game, as it will be a sort of try-out for the next Prep School League championship game. They are out to win the championship series, and any other game they mix-up in. They have practiced hard for the game today, and will march on the field determined to send the Chester boys back to their native land with sick faces.

The Chester boys have been going well thus far, having defeated the Fredericksburg High School, Blackstone Academy and John Marshall High School. They have lost but one game, and that to Richmond Academy. They have no desire to lose to the McGuire's eleven to-day, and an interesting game is expected. Chester's coach reports to McGuire's that all are well and in good condition for the game, and that his men are anxious for the scrimmage to start.

The probable line-up follows:
McGuire's Position: School
W. Hammond, left end; T. Berry, left tackle; E. Berry, left guard; J. D. Simpson, center; H. Hammond, right guard; A. Abbott, right tackle; H. Hatcher, right end; H. Hatcher, Northern quarter back; F. Shepherd, right half back; J. Goyne, left half back; J. Goyne, full back; J. Goyne, punter.
DEFENSE LINE POSITION:
J. P. Summers, Addresses Voters in His Campaign for Senate.

Richmond, Va., October 27.—The first grueling practice by the Washington and Lee squad for the Virginia Polytechnic Institute game was inaugurated this afternoon when Coach Pound put the squad through hard work. Half back Young, the star who was injured in the Johns Hopkins game, appeared this afternoon, and will be ready for the battle. From present indications, Washington and Lee will present its greatest strength. The entire student body will attend the game, a private train having been chartered.

VANDERBILT STAR IS OUT OF GAME

Tom Brown, All-Southern Tackler, Badly Injured in Michigan Game.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Nashville, Tenn., October 27.—Vanderbilt's football stock took another decided drop yesterday, when it was announced that Tom Brown, all-Southern tackler, and one of the two veteran forwards to return this year, would be out of the game until Thanksgiving at least, and possibly for the entire season, as the result of injuries received in the Michigan game. An examination of Brown's injured foot revealed the fact that he is suffering from a broken bone, and it will be weeks before this injury is healed. A broken cartilage in his neck is also causing him some trouble, but it is not thought that this injury would have kept him out of the Virginia game. Brown's loss not only robs Coach McGuire of the best tackler in the South, but leaves him with but one experienced lineman in Buddy Morgan, and further weakens what seems to be one of the weakest elevens that has represented Vanderbilt in the last ten years.

With the Virginia game less than a week off and Auburn following closely on its heels, the outlook at Vanderbilt is anything but promising now, and football critics will concede that the Commodore stand a good chance of getting beat in either or both of these contests.

GIANTS DEFEAT WHITE SOX CLAN

With Johnson and Fromme Pitching, Teams Indulge in Field Day.

Joplin, Mo., October 27.—The Giants defeated the White Sox, 12 to 12, on a muddy field here to-day. Walter Johnson, of the Senators, started for the Sox, and Fromme for the Giants. Ben replaced Johnson while the game, and in the eighth gave way to Faber. Fromme relieved Hearne in the seventh. Johnson was presented with a diamond-studded watch by the local fans. Both sides watched the ball hard, the Sox making nineteen hits, and the Giants seventeen. Score by innings: Giants..... 0 2 1 4 3 2 0 12
White Sox..... 3 1 0 2 3 0 0 12

VIRGINIA STARTS FINAL PRACTICE FOR VANDERBILT

No Injuries From Georgia Game. Hammond Johnson Augments Coaching Staff.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Charlottesville, Va., October 27.—The Virginia coaches started in this afternoon to groom the team for the Vanderbilt contest on Lambeth Field next Saturday. As no injuries to the players resulted from Saturday's game at Atlanta, every member of the squad reported and remained on the field until dark.

Special practice was the order of the day, the varsity squad retreating to Lambeth Field, just below Lambeth Field. The coaching staff was augmented by Hammond Johnson, the first and only coach at Virginia, under the annual system of coaching. Johnson saw the game in Atlanta Saturday and will spend the week here in giving individual instruction to the backfield candidates.

RAIN AT LATONIA CAUSES BAD TRACK

Latonia, Ky., October 27.—Rain fell at Latonia to-day, and the track was in bad shape again, making the going very heavy. Amos Turner's Klebner after running second on several different occasions, won the fourth event at odds of two to one. Coy had no difficulty in landing the third event at a good price, and H. H. Adair managed to finish first in the fifth event. He paid eleven to two. Water Boss demonstrated that he is a good colt by taking into camp some good youngsters in the six furlong sprint for two-year-olds.

VIRGINIA SECOND TEAM WINS GAME

Orange, Va., October 27.—University of Virginia's second team defeated Woodberry Forest this afternoon by the score of 21 to 14. The school team was greatly outweighted. Paschall and E. Rain Ceases and Coaches Are Drilling Men Daily—Injured Are Getting Well.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Lexington, Va., October 27.—After a week of almost continuous rain the V. M. I. football team in an afternoon had hard practice here to-day. Most of the men who were injured in the Virginia game were out of the hospital by the practice or following the play. Look, however, who has played consistently fine ball ever since the season opened, is still in the hospital with a bad knee, which may prevent him from getting back into the game this year. The wealth of material among the new men is a feature of this season, which is most gratifying to Coach Pound and his assistants.

Both Albright and Olson are as anxious to see which is the better man as the public is. Although there isn't any love lost between the two, they both agree to wrestle as they have always done, which is clean wrestling.

Want Opening Postponed.

New York, October 27.—James E. Sullivan, American Olympic commissioner, announced to-night that he would request the German Olympic committee, on behalf of the United States team, to postpone the opening of the Olympic game at Berlin in 1916 at least one week. Mr. Sullivan said that the committee evidently made a concession to us, but even to open the game on July 1 will work a hardship on our team of 1916. Close to 50 per cent of the team will be college students. In many cases it would be impossible for them to leave college before June 15 or later.

VICTORY FOR FORK UNION.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Fork Union, Va., October 27.—Fork Union Military Academy overwhelmed the Charlottesville High School eleven by a score of 54 to 0. The Cadet football was never in danger during the contest.
